Housing-Based Urban Planning ? Sir Patrick Geddes' Modern Master Plan for Tel Aviv, 1925

Figure 1: Edinburgh Old Town Tenements and repairing, 1911. Source: Geddes Archive, University of Strathclyde.

Figure 2: Repairings of Edinburgh Old Town Tenements, 1911. Source: Geddes Archive, University of Strathclyde.

Figure 3: House type drawings. Source: Geddes Archive, University of Strathclyde.

Figure 4: Indore expanding worker housing proposal. Source: Geddes, 1918.

Figure 5: Indore urban block explorations. Source: Geddes, 1918.

Figure 6: The Shapira Alley cottages versus nearby tenement. Source: Geddes Archive, University of Strathclyde.

Figure 7: Geddes block scheme. Schemes by Author.

Figure 8: Scheme of the Geddes plan area within contemporary Tel Aviv-Jaffa area, with the location of Worker Neighborhood A, Neighbors' Neighborhood B, Camel Leaders Neighborhood and Be'eri Estate. Source: Author.

Figure 9: Ben Gurion family in front of their house, Worker Neighborhood A, 1935. Source: Aner, 1988. Building permit for Worker Neighborhood A, 1933. Source: Tel Aviv Technical Archive.

Figure 10: Camel Leaders' Neighborhood, permit for Yeshayahu 36. Source: Tel Aviv Technical Archive.

Figure 11: Neighbors' Neighborhood C, circa 1934. Source: Tel Aviv 100.

Figure 12: Arie Sharon's proposal for Me'Onot Ovdim (worker residence) in response to Tel Aviv home-block densification. Source: Arie Sharon Archive, Azrieli Archive for Israeli Architecture.

Figure 13 Be'eri estate. Advertisement for the estate, 1965. Scheme by Author.

Figure 14 Be'eri estate. Plan source: Arieh Sharon Archive at Azrieli Archive for Israeli Architecture.

Figure 15 Be'eri estate home-block. Scheme by Author.